The Army of Housekeepers.

As there are about the same number of women in this country as men, it will be seen that the proportion of the former at work at gainful occupations is smaller than is popularly supposed, only one in five being engaged at any work from which she derives a revenue, either in the form of wages and salary or profit in business. This does not mean that the other four-fifths of the women are idle, for they probably work as hard as the men, but that the labor they do produces nothing in a financial way. They are the housekeepers of the country, doing the sewing, cooking, nursing and other domestic service for most of the families. The prevalent belief that a majority of the women are typewriting, clerking or filling other positions from which they have crowded out the men is founded on error. The great majority of them are still at home attending to their household duties, and only a very small proportion are out in the world struggling with the other sex for a living.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Latest In Watches.

Watches are worn smaller than ever, and, although an effort was made last season to revive the watch chain, the effort met with no response, for watches are still fastened to the bodice with a jeweled brooch, and the chatelaine proudly holds its own. In Paris and New York the latest fad is to have a watch in the form of a ball, thickly incrusted with emeralds or enameled with glistening green. Another watch, in fashion of a beetle, has a body of dull gold shining with gems. You touch a spring, and the wings open as if to fly, disclosing a peep of the time of day. Among other items of new jewelry are the Russian girdles and belts of white or colored enamels, tricked out with gems either false or real, according to the price one can afford.

How It Used to Be.

Here is a story told by a relative of Lady Langford, the original of Lady Kew in Thackeray's "Newcomes:" "Lady Langford had only once seen her cousin, Lord Langford, when he came to visit her grandmother, and the next day the old lady told her she was to marry him. 'Very well, grandmamma. But when?' 'I never in my life heard such an impertinent question,' said the grandmother. 'What business is it of yours when you are to marry him? You will marry him when I tell you. However, whenever you hear me order six horses to the carriage you may know that you are going to be married.' And so it was."

WHAT IS PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND.

Paine's Celery Compound is the one remedy that can be trusted to make a person well.

It stops the drain on the nervous system; dispels harmful humors from the blood, and increases its volume and its nourishing capacity.

Its ability to relieve those ailments that are peculiarly the misfortune of women, is overwhelmingly proved by the many testimonials from women of the highest standing in the communities where they live.

Its regulating power does away with "that disheartened feeling."

The aggrevated causes of disordered liver and kidneys, mental depression, hysteria and kidney troubles, are recognized and dealt with by Paine's Celery Compound in a radical and scientific manner that embodies the most advanced medical ideas of this last decade of the century.

Paine's Celery Compound strengthens the stomach when it is irritable and inclined to indigestion, and prevents dyspepsia; it relieves palpitation of the heart that results from irregular nerve supply of that vital organ, and puts new life into the entire nervous system.

Persons in sound health are not continually reminded of their heart, stomach or liver by distresses in those organs. Whenever languor or pain attack the body there is no question as to the urgent need of strengthening and restoring the health by Paine's Celery Compound. Women in the trying occupations; not only housewives but saleswomen, teachers, book-keepers and others penned up for long hours behind desks and counters will find their health and strength greatly improved by the use of Paine's Celery Compound.

A soundly nourished nervous system and a rich, pure blood supply brought about by Paine's Celery Compound are the best bulwark against such diseases of debility and impoverishment as rheumatism, neuralgia, headache and sleeplessness. This great invigorator not only cures these diseases; but by building up the system prevents their gaining a lodgment in the body.

When one hears it confidently declared by so many well known and representative men and women everywhere that Paine's Celery Compound positively and permently cures diseases that at first glance seem so remote from each other as chronic constipation, hysteria and nervousness, inquiry into these diseases show that their common origin is a run-down, exhausted nervous system and vitiated blood, and Paine's Celery Compound builds up the one and purifies and strengthens the other.

THE NEXT SENATE.

It is now almost definitely ascertained that the silver men will have a majority in the next Senate of the United States. Of the ninety Senators who will compose the Senate, assuming that all the States will be fully represented, it is known that forty-four will favor a change in the tariff laws, while only thirty-six are opposed to a material increase in duties. There are ten doubtful Senators—that is, men who, while believing that the adoption of the gold standard is the cause of the general depression in the United States, may or may not vote for an increase of duties on imports. These are Cannon and Rawlins of Utah, Stewart and Jones of Nevada, Mantle of Montana, Heitfeld of Idaho, Harris of Kansas, Pettigrew of South Dakota, Turner of Washington and Teller of Colorado.

In the new Senate Brown of Utah, Republican, will be succeeded by Rawline, Silver Democrat; Squire of Washington will be succeeded by Turner, a free coinage man, and Delaware, which has only one United States Senator in the present Congress, has elected Kenney, a Bryan Democrat, to fill the vacancy. Senator-elect Kenney says he regards his election as a victory for the Silver men of Delaware, who stood loyal to Bryan. Personally he favored free coinage, and gave Bryan his cordial support. He declares that he is unalterably in favor of bimetallism, and will vote unfalteringly for it to the end.

As the gold men allege that an increase in tariff duties would restore prosperity to the country, and as they are in the ascendency in the House, and will control the administration, would it not be wise policy for the Silver men in the Senate to permit any tariff bill the gold men may frame to go through that body? If Congress is convened in extra session immediately after the 4th of March, and a tariff bill passes within a month from that time, the people will have opportunity of knowing before the general election in 1898 whether the gold men are right or wrong. If they are right the country will prosper, and if they are wrong the people can right the wrong at the Congressional elections in 1898 if Hanna does not raise another campaign fund of $10,000,000 or $15,000,000 and buy enough votes to keep the gold men in power.

TROUBLE WITH THE WARSHIPS.

No one wants to cast aspersions on the nation's beautiful new navy, but in a modest, inquiring spirit the public would like to know the real cause of the recent numerous breakdowns in the various vessels of the fleet. After the Texas had gone through a series of troubles and the Indiana had broken her turrets, the Marblehead injured her steering gear so seriously that if out at sea she certainly would have sunk, and now the pride of the cruisers, the Brooklyn, butts against a rock in the Delaware river and is dragged into port by tugs, her beautiful nose deeply immersed in the waves.

Without speculating as to the kind of seamanship which brings on disaster that even the ordinary tramp freight steamer would avoid, it is evident that some of our new vessels do not show very good seagoing qualities. With all the intricate apparatus, the delicate steering mechanism, the complex systems of signals and other paraphernalia, the vessels have more trouble than the ordinary Atlantic liner. Perhaps the very intricacy and weight of the mechanical attachments have something to do with this clumsiness on the ocean. The modern battleship is a floating mechanical workshop, and apparently the improvements in hulls and safety devices has not kept pace with the growth of machinery.

Now, in a period of peace, is the right time for the naval officials to make a careful investigation of this matter and get at the facts. Meanwhile the uncertain members of the fleet can be made safe by hauling them to the dry docks and keeping all dampness away from them.

SENATOR STEWART of Nevada borrowed $80,000 of the late Senator Stanford of California. Mrs. Stanford, executrix of her husband's estate, called upon Senator Stewart for settlement. He was not ready to pay all of the indebtedness, so he transferred property valued at $20,000 to Mrs. Stanford to partly satisfy the demand. Recently Mrs. Stanford gave notice to all debtors to settle up, and a few days ago Senator Stewart deeded $60,000 worth of property to Mrs. Stanford, and squared the account. Senator Stewart invested the $80,000 which he borrowed from Senator Stanford in California real estate, and that property he deeded to Mrs. Stanford and redeemed his note.

AN ordinance prohibiting the ringing of bells—church or otherwise—has been introduced in the Chicago city council, with a penalty attachment of not to exceed $200 fine. It is stated on good authority that fully half the members of the council own saloons, and this fact would naturally lead one to believe that the ringing of church bells had a disturbing influence on the various back-room poker games.

There is a scandal in Sacramento regarding the appointment of Coroner Clark, who, it is alleged, had to pay $1,500 for the office.

CONGRESSIONAL NEWS.

THE NICARAGUA CANAL BILL DISCUSSED.

Testimony Regarding the Armor Plate Frauds Made Public.

WASHINGTON, February 5.—The Allen resolution questioning the right of the executive to foreclose on the Pacific railroads was taken up by the Senate to-day.

Thurston of Nebraska continued a speech in opposition.

At 2 o'clock the Nicaragua canal bill was taken up.

Allen of Nebraska and Caffery of Louisiana opposed the canal bill.

The testimony taken before the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs in regard to the report on armor plate was made public to-day. The report shows that Manager H. C. Frick of the Carnegie company submitted a written proposition agreeing to leave some differences between the company and the United States to arbitration.

Superintendent Schwab's statement of the position of the company on the subject of arbitration was brought out by a question from Senator McMillan. The colloquy was as follows:

McMillan—Is it true that the profits paid by the Government practically paid for all the plant?

Schwab—No, sir, it is not true, because the profits have been calculated on a false basis. We cannot show you that without showing you our books. We have refused to show them for a good many reasons. In no branch of our business do we consider our money so poorly invested as in armor. There is no branch of the business that gives us so much trouble, so much worry and in which we think we have such a poor outlook as we have in armor. There is nothing which would please us better, and we are thoroughly in earnest when we say we would like the Government to take our plant. We have undoubtedly the best plant in the world.

Senator Smith—At what cost do you propose?

Mr. Schwab—We will fix the value by arbitration—value of plant and process and everything. They are all subjects of arbitration and valuation.

"Jokes" Not Appreciated.

Since the beginning of the festivities incident to the Chinese new year quite a number of citizens of Reno have each evening visited the quarter occupied by the worshipers of Mr. Joss. There is a certain element among the visitors, however, in whom "old scratch" is largely developed, and who, while perhaps not intending anything wrong, play pranks that are clearly unlawful. The officers do not wish to be unnecessarily severe, but if the "jokes" of the last day or two are repeated something is liable to drop.

One of the wrong things in this world is that a woman has to wait for a man to speak. Her happiness may depend upon him, but she is not permitted to tell him so, as he would be to tell her. She must depend upon her ability to create and foster in him a favorable and ardent feeling. To do this, she must depend much upon her appearance. No man admires a sallow skin, dull and sunken and circled eyes, bloodless lips, sunken cheeks. No man wants to marry an invalid. Very few invalids are attractive to either sex. It isn't natural that they should be. Many a woman's heart's happiness has been wrecked because of a crop of pimples or because of a foul breath, or because of some other unpleasant symptom of an irregularity in the performance of her natural functions.

Health in a woman brings clear complexion, red lips, vivacity, sparkle of eyes and intellect. Eternal watchfulness is the price of health. The downward road to disease is fatally easy to travel. Little disorders, little irregularities, little drains, lead to the most serious consequences. Put a stop to them! Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will do it without the embarrassment of examinations and "local treatment" so much dreaded by modest women. In nine cases in ten, there is absolutely no need of them. The "Favorite Prescription" has been prescribed by Dr. Pierce for over 30 years and has cured the very worst forms of female troubles.

A book of 1000 pages, profusely illustrated, written by him containing much valuable information and letters from hundreds of grateful women, will be sent absolutely free on receipt of twenty-one cents, in one-cent stamps, to pay postage and wrapping only, by WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Skating Rink.

The skating rink at the Pavilion has changed hands. C. P. Ferrel has assumed full control, and it will be open every afternoon and evening. Wednesday and Friday afternoons for ladies only. Saturday nights a dance will be conducted in connection with the skating. Good order will be maintained and a good time is assured all who attend. New features will be introduced frequently. On the 15th of February catching a greased pig will be the event. On the 25th a grand carnival and dance will be held. j30m1.

And you are further notified that if you fail to appear and answer said complaint, the said plaintiff will appeal to the Court for the relief demanded.

THE NEVADA LEGISLATURE.

THE EIGHTEENTH SESSION—NINETEENTH DAY.

A Resolution Introduced Providing For Adjournment on the Twenty-seventh.

CARSON, February 5, 1897.

The Senate had an unimportant session to-day, there being little business transacted. Senator Ernst introduced a concurrent resolution providing for an adjournment of the two bodies on the 27th of the month sine die. While there may be some good reasons advanced in favor of the adoption of the resolution it might as well be urged that the legislature is a useless expense to the State and could have been dispensed with entirely. So far there has been little accomplished, but it always takes two or three weeks for the members to become acquainted with each other and the routine of legislation. It is not always a good idea to hurry through work simply to accomplish an early adjournment, for something might be left undone or half done that would cost the State in the long run more than a session of the legislature. The principal cost of convening the present session cannot be reduced now and a few days more or less will not be any great saving, if important work is left undone.

Senator Ernst is no doubt sincere in his desire to economize and save every expense possible these hard times, but unless matters are pushed forward more rapidly than they have been in the last few days, much business will be left unfinished.

Assemblyman Stoddard's bill for the appointment of an inspector of apiaries created some amusement to-day. After some discussion Mr. Burchfield of Lander moved to amend the bill by striking out the letters "i" and "rie" in the word "apiaries" wherever it occurs in the bill. A number of members on the floor who are not informed on bee culture and not being posted on the technical term apiaries concluded at once that it was a measure in the interest of the A. P. A.'s and the word "apiaries" had been used to mislead, consequently they jumped onto it with both feet and the bill was indefinitely postponed.

The House had a busy session clearing up matters that had accumulated during the week.

WEATHER BULLETIN.

The Temperature During the Coming Week Will Be Normal.

(Copyright, 1896, by W. T. Foster.)

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Feb. 6.—My last bulletin gave forecasts of the storm wave to cross the continent from the February 12th to 16th.

The next disturbance will reach the Pacific Coast about February 16th, cross the west of the Rockies by the close of the 17th, the Great Central Valleys Febuary 18th to 20th, and the Eastern States the 21st.

The warm wave will cross the west of Rockies about the February 16th, great central valleys 18th, Eastern States 20th. The cool wave will cross the west of Rockies about February 19th, great central valleys 21st, Eastern States the 23d.

This disturbance will occur in the high temperature storm period; rain and snow will be below normal and temperature above.

The temperature of the week ending the 13th will average above and rainfall below.

MARCH WEATHER.

The unsettled weather of the month of March, especially in the northeastern portions of the United States, with its rapid alternations of warm and cold winds, often reaching considerable violence, in the parting salute of the cold winter that has prevailed for five months throughout the northern cap. A most impressive feature of this change, as deduced from a close study of the barometers and temperature readings of the weather bureau, is the suddenness with which the struggle is concluded in the northwest, for March often comes in with a very violent action, and this is almost certain to end about the 20th of the month with moderate movements of the air. The struggle is prolonged to the east, but is usually about over by the 10th of April.

Looking for Training Quarters.

E. J. Cook, who represents John Brady, Corbett's manager, arrived in town yesterday morning and left for Steamboat Springs on the local to look over the ground there in order to select a suitable training place for Corbett to prepare for the coming contest with Fitzsimmons.

A SERIOUS FIRE.

A Gasoline Tank in the State Printing Office Explodes.

Shortly after 8 o'clock this morning the fire bell clanged out an alarm, and the department was soon skurrying through the rain and mud toward the State Printing Office, the interior of which was in a blaze. The fire apparatus was soon unlimbered and a stream turned into the building and the fire extinguished.

The fire was caused by the explosion of the gasoline tank used in connection with the engine. James Huling, assistant pressman, was running a press in the pressroom, and the balance of the force was at work in the composing-room and bindery. Suddenly all hands were startled by a loud report and almost instantly a perfect sea of flame burst through the archway between the pressroom and composing-room, and Pressman Huling was seen frantically struggling in the midst of it in an endeavor to get to the door leading from the building. His clothes and hair were on fire, but friendly hands soon came to his aid.

The young ladies in the bindery up stairs fled for their lives, while the other employes fought the flames in the composing-room until the firemen arrived.

Foreman Mackey of the printing office and other employes gave their attention to the composing-room, and saw to it that nothing about the office was disturbed; also careful about the throwing of water, so that in this room little damage occurred, except the charring of the ceiling and woodwork near the pressroom. In the latter, at first glance, the destruction appeared complete. The gasoline tank was blown in pieces and was scattered about the room. The rollers on the presses were melted and the woodwork totally destroyed, and for a time it was feared that the ironwork on the presses had been badly injured. It was found, however, that the heat had not caused serious injury. Considerable stock, consisting of paper, cardboard, etc., piled up in the pressroom was charred, but much of it can be used.

The loss is estimated at from $1,200 to $1,500, and there is an insurance of $12,000 on the plant. There is some question whether a permit had been granted by the insurance companies to have the gasoline tank in the building. If a permit had not been granted the loss will fall on the State.

Mr. Huling cannot account for the explosion. There were only seven gallons of gasoline in the tank, and the engine and presses were running along as usual, he working on a press near the tank. There was no warning of the explosion, and finding himself surrounded by fire was the first notice of anything wrong. His hands and wrists are badly burned, and he received some burns about the face, but nothing serious. He sustained the loss of his eyebrows and part of his hair, but feels that he made a fortunate escape in getting out with his life.

Men were put to work immediately cleaning the presses, and it is believed by State Printer McCarthy that work can go on as usual by Monday. The work in the office was pretty well up to date, so that little if any new work had been commenced. The fact that the Legislature is in session makes it a little inconvenient as regards the printing of bills, but if work can go on next week the delay will be of little importance.

Another Protest.

EDITOR NEVADA STATE JOURNAL:—I claim that the proceedings of the legislators are open to criticism; and as an old citizen of Nevada enter my solemn protest against the bill just passed by the legislature, and with such unseemly haste signed by the Governor, called "The Glove Contest bill." I in common with the community in which I live, feel that as Nevadans we are disgraced and dishonored.

From California to Maine, the press and pulpit will make one united howl against our beloved "battle-born State."

It was not bad enough to have a black seal put on our sources of revenue by the vampires of Wall and Lombard Streets, but we must befoul our own nest through the act of a set of men who, instead of representing the best interests of their moral, honest and industrious fellow citizens, have succumbed to the base desires of the sports, blacklegs, and their consorts of this and foreign States, by enacting a law which will cause their names to be held in obloquy, and their wives and families to hide their heads in shame.

All honor to our senator, H. A. Comins, and the five worthy senators who voted with him against the bill, and we hope two years from now to see the infamous act repealed and buried in oblivion.

Governor Sadler, who has had my personal friendship for thirty years, has made the mistake of his life. If he sought notoriety, he has surely gained it. And his friends lament that a name that might have been heralded throughout christendom with joy, by his vetoing the bill, will now be held in derision; and Sadler will be known as the only Governor under the Stars and Stripes who would have dared sign a bill to legalize prize fighting with all its attendant evils. JOHN WEBERT.

Cherry Creek, Feb., 3, 1897.

A Bad Spell of Certiorari.

An old correspondent of ours at "Dutch Nick's" writes to find out what is the matter with the Carson Appeal, and then calls attention to the many efforts of the Appeal man to spell the word "certiorari" in several of its comments on the decision of the courts in relation to the brass knuckle assault of Jones on the Appeal editor some months ago. We have looked up the matter, and find that the Appeal has apparently made frantic efforts to spell the word, with but indifferent results. Indeed, it is about the worst spell of shisers we ever saw.

To Visit State Institutions.

Assemblymen McAfee, Smiley and Hardesty of Elko, Hatch of Storey, Bradshaw of Humboldt, McNaughten of Esmeralda, Hodgkinson, Lemmon and Stoddard of Washoe arrived from Carson last night. Most of the gentlemen are on the Committee of Ways and Means and will visit the State institutions here to-day.

Card of Thanks.

We take this means of thanking all who so kindly assisted in caring for our dear wife and mother during her recent illness and death. May they be shown the same kindness and consideration when the Angel of Death enters their homes.

K. J. CONWAY.
R. J. CONWAY.

DIED.

CONWAY—In Clover Valley, Elko county, Nev., January 31, 1897, Mary Jane Conway, wife of K. G. Conway, aged 44 years 1 month 23 days.

Mary Jane McClure was born in Cleveland, Ohio, December 11, 1852. Four years later her father died; then she and her mother moved to relatives in Waupaca, Wisconsin. There they lived until her mother was called to join the father in the Unknown World, leaving their only child, Jennie, an orphan at the tender age of 14. A year after Jennie's uncle, Robert Steele, brought her to live with him and his wife on Truckee Meadows.

She remained there until she married K. J. Conway in 1881. He brought her to his home in Clover Valley, where he erected a handsome residence and surrounded her with every luxury. Three years later a son blessed their happy union.

For years Mrs. Conway has been ailing with heart trouble and neuralgia. She had doctored with some of the best physicians in the country, but none of them could give her permanent health.

A few years ago she went to Salt Lake City for medical treatment. Last year she went to Ogden and doctored with the Rich Bros. For a while she seemed benefited, but of late had been far from well. She bore her sickness very patiently and cheerfully for the sake of her dear husband and son.

Two days before she died she suffered a great deal, but her relatives and friends were in hopes she would regain her usual health.

Dr. Hood of Elko was summoned, but could do very little for her, as a Higher Power was already preparing another home for this loved one. On Sunday evening she received her final summons Home.

Tuesday, the friends and relatives assembled to take a last look at the dear, familiar face. Rev. Mr. Dawson of Elko preached her funeral service, and were we all much comforted by it.

Mrs. Conway's remains were then taken to Wells to be shipped on the evening train to Reno for interment. The heart-broken father and son accompanied them.

Relatives of the deceased will meet them at the train, and all that is mortal of one that was loved so well will be laid in her final resting place. May she sleep in peace, for she is

"Safe in the arms of Jesus,
Safe on His gentle breast,
There by His love o'ershadowed,
Sweetly her soul shall rest."

We extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved father and son in this sad, dark hour. We know that their loss is great—can never be replaced—but we pray that God will comfort and lead them to a place by her side where there are no more sorrows nor separations.

Woman's Work

Is never done, and it is especially wearing and wearisome to those whose blood is impure and unfit properly to tone, sustain, and renew the wasting of nerve, muscle and tissue. It is more because of this condition of the blood that women are run down,

Tired, Weak, Nervous,

Than because of the work itself. Every physician says so, and that the only remedy is in building up by taking a good nerve tonic, blood purifier and vitalizer like Hood's Sarsaparilla. The Datura.

The datura varieties of which are commonly known as the Jamestown weed, or more familiarly the jimson weed, the thorn apple, an allusion to the shape of the seed case and its spines, and the devil's trumpet, recalling its shape and villainous odor, retains its name almost unchanged from the Arabic.

Experts have come to the conclusion that what kills trees in London is not the soot flakes or the want of air or the drought, but the sewer gas, which attacks the roots so that the tree soon withers and dies.

The Good Samaritan.

The following tale, related to me by a friend, is absolutely true, says a writer in the London Sketch. A lady recently touring in the highlands—for obvious reasons I omit the lady's name and the name of the district—had the misfortune, while riding alone through a picturesque but scantily populated glen, to meet with an accident, being thrown from her machine, badly bruised and shaken and more or less cut and scratched about the hands. Upon recovering her equanimity she made her way to the nearest habitation, which chanced to be the manse, and asked to be allowed to wash the mud off her hands and then to rest awhile. The minister was absent, but his housekeeper received her kindly, and, having attended to her wants, offered and gave her a cup of tea.

Soon afterward the minister returned and was, of course, duly informed of the presence of the unexpected guest. Thereupon his reverence entered the kitchen, where the lady was resting, and, after surveying her critically with a suspicious eye for several moments, he addressed her in the following friendly manner: "Ma'am," he said, "I'm sure I don't know who you are, and I don't know where you come from, and, for anything I know, you may carry off some of my property, so I think the sooner you leave my house the better." The poor lady, in dire distress, promptly rose and complied with this inhospitable request and was shortly afterward found by a pleasant woman sitting by the roadside and in tears. This good Samaritan quickly led the wanderer to the nearest inn, where a dogcart was soon procured, in which the unfortunate lady and her damaged bicycle were conveyed home.

Chinese Jewelers.

There are two jewelers in Chinatown, but their establishments do not resemble the ordinary places known as jewelry shops. The Chinese jeweler is a manufacturer as well as a shopkeeper. His establishment is a tiny room up one or two narrow flights of stairs. The room in one place is divided by an openwork iron partition, with an arch and a counter near the window, where the jeweler stands at work. He is an elderly Chinaman, wearing glasses, and he works over a tiny fire in the window. All his work is done by hand, and some of it is beautiful. There are heavy silver bracelets, which open with a hinge and fasten with an odd little staple. The fine raised pattern is cut out, every bit of it, by hand. There are gold rings made in the same way. They are fine rings, made of 24 carat gold. Almost nothing is kept in stock. There may chance to be a few rings and bracelets, which are taken from a small safe. Most of the goods are made to order. When the manufacturer is asked the price of a ring, he weighs it before he answers. His scales consist of a slender stick of ivory, perhaps a third of a yard long, covered with Chinese characters. At one end is a small brass plate suspended from the stick by fine threads, and a very small weight, also hanging by a thread, is moved along to the balancing point by the jeweler as he holds the little machine in his hand. The front part of the little shop is filled with a stove, table, dishpan, dishes—as many things as could be crowded into it.—New York

Digestible Women.

An extraordinary discussion on the subject of cannibalism took place at the recent meeting of the Ethnographical society in Paris. A curious tribute was paid to the superior qualities of woman, but one which she will hardly appreciate.

A member of the society read a paper in which he declared that among savage nations those who were addicted to cannibalism were the most healthy and vigorous. He sought to prove this by descriptions of several races.

This argument was directed partly against vegetarianism, for savages who abstain from eating one another usually have a meager supply of animal food.

The scientist further made the shocking statement that the flesh of women was much more nutritious and digestible than that of men. Many savage tribes recognized this fact and ate only women when the supply was sufficient. In some races, however, the flesh of men, though less palatable than that of women, was preferred because the virtues of the deceased were supposed to pass into the eater.—San Francisco Examiner.

They Were Ready.

One of the district school trustees was a crank on the subject of fire, and when he called around with the examining board he always confined his remarks to a question addressed to the pupils as to what they would do in case the building should catch fire.

The teacher was acquainted with his hobby, so she prompted her scholars as to the answer they should give when he arose to propound his accustomed inquiry.

When the board called, however, this particular trustee, perhaps from a desire to emulate his associates in their addresses, rose and said:

"You boys and girls have paid such nice attention to Mr. Jones' remarks, I wonder what you would do if I were to make you a little speech?"

Quick as thought 100 voices piped in unison:

"Form a line and march down stairs."—Detroit Free Press.

Municipal Time at Glasgow.

One of the most interesting of Glasgow enterprises is what may be described as municipal time for the entire city. Some years ago the experiment was tried of placing municipal clocks in prominent positions all over Glasgow and regulating them by synchronization. The present scheme is much more elaborate and is nothing less than the establishment of a system of standard time, by means of electrically controlled clocks, regulated every second from the stellar clock at the observatory. A regulating clock, directly controlled from the observatory, has been placed in the city chambers, and this in turn controls three circuits of public clocks at various points in the city. In the meantime only about a dozen clocks have been provided, but if the trial proves successful the corporation intends to erect from 200 to 500 18 inch dials, thus providing a reliable system of standard time for all parts of the city. This extension of the circuit will involve the laying of 61 miles of wire. It is hoped also to include time keeping in private houses.—Westminster Gazette.

Sea Raven and Sculpin.

It is the common habit of fishes, in swallowing other fishes as food, to swallow them head first. The fish's spines and fins smooth down toward the tail, and if the fish were swallowed tail first the spines and fins would spread out and catch in the swallower's throat and choke it, perhaps, to death, as has not infrequently happened.

In a tank at the aquarium is a sea raven 14 or 15 inches long. Like all sea ravens, it has a big head and an enormous mouth for a fish of its size. In the same tank is a sculpin, perhaps a foot long and a little slenderer than the sea raven. The two were lying on the bottom of the tank the other day, the sculpin just ahead of the sea raven and wagging its tail idly in the sea raven's face. Whether the sea raven was incensed by this or the motion simply suggested a chance for a square meal without hunting for it, it would be impossible to determine, but the next time the sculpin's tail came by the sea raven detained it, and then it began to swallow the sculpin tail first.

The sea raven had taken in four-fifths of the sculpin, about all but its head. The sculpin, too, has a great head for a fish of its size, but the sea raven, with its capacious mouth, would have got it down all right and swallowed the entire fish but for the short, stout spines that the sculpin has, one on each side of its head. These now spread out and settled in the corners of the sea raven's jaws. It was like spreading a stick across the mouth of a pit. It was quite impossible for the sea raven to swallow the sculpin any farther. In fact, its only desire now was to get rid of it, and, helping itself a little with some slight wrigglings, the sculpin was soon free again and swimming about.—New York Sun.

A Linguistic Training.

One of the most valuable kinds of training which the college can give is the linguistic. If to think is important, linguistic training is important. For we think in words. Therefore thinking becomes clear, orderly, profound, as language is adequate. Language represents those methods and results of thought without which thought itself is feeble and inefficient. Therefore training in language is of the highest value. To be able to think in or adequately use the English or any other language one should know the language. He can only know this language as he knows those languages which have made the richest contributions to its structure. Every new science and every new application of any old science goes to the Greek for its very name; hence, a training in Latin and Greek is of the greatest worth. The college is not filling the mind with useless knowledge in requiring students to learn these, not dead, but living languages.

Second, the scientific school is a professional school. Its graduate goes from its commencement, as goes the graduate of the school of law, theology or medicine, directly to his life's work. It is not a school of liberal culture or of general training. It is to be said, and said with the utmost clearness, that the governors of our best technical and scientific schools are beginning to recognize the advantages which the man desiring to enter these schools possesses if he has previously received a general training through the college.—Forum.

Hidden by Their Colors.

To understand the value of what scientific men call protective coloration in animals one need only look at the common ruffed grouse, or partridge, of North America and consider how hard it is to see him in the woods, even where nothing intervenes to hide him from view. His colors agree so well with the background against which he stands that the eye is slow to make him out.

Mr. Gregory, in his recent volume of Afghan travel, "The Great Rift Valley," mentions several striking instances of animals thus protected, among which that of a certain monkey, Colobus occidentalis, is perhaps the most peculiar. This monkey is covered with a long, silky fur, arranged in alternate stripes of black and white, so handsome that the skin is much prized by the natives for making head ornaments.

The contrast of black and white is so marked that at first sight it would seem to preclude concealment, but its value is at once evident when the animal is seen at home. It lives in high forests, where the trees have black trunks and branches, draped with long gray mosses of beard moss or lichen. As the monkeys hang from the branches they resemble the lichen so closely that Mr. Gregory found it impossible to recognize them, even at a short distance.

Prospective Coercion.

"I think," said the fond mother, "that I will have the baby's picture taken."

"How old is she?" inquired the crabbed bachelor.

"Eleven months."

"I think," said the crabbed bachelor, "that it would be a first rate idea to have her picture taken without delay. Then, when she grows older, if she doesn't obey you, you can threaten to show it to her friends."—Washington Star.
